Community support angle

Michelle Stewart, CEO of Cure Brain Cancer Foundation commented, "The Cambage Court Christmas Lights display is a beautiful example of a family doing something a little different to raise funds and awareness to help find a cure for brain cancer. My family and I are regular visitors to Michael's incredible display, and they always do an amazing job. Cure Brain Cancer Foundation are so grateful for the family's ongoing support"

"The display is not just about providing an amount to charities although important but about providing the community of all ages with a strong experience of joy and pleasure and providing them with entertainment at Christmas" Michael Grey Display Organiser"

"In our community of Davidson Michael and his family are literally shining examples of all that is good and true about Christmas". Said Scott and Mara said

"The lights shine not for selfish reasons but for others who arrive by bus and car to enjoy and take part in the Christmas spirit. Those who are less fortunate are not forgotten as Michael and his family raise money for charities such as SIDS and Kids, Humpty Dumpty Foundation and Cure Brain Cancer Foundation. Scott and Mara said

Michael's Christmas lights spectacular shines a beam of Christmas spirit in our local community and typifies all that is good about this special time of year". Scott and Mara said

Community Stories

"We are glad to see you are again supporting SIDS and Kids this year. It is a charity very close to our hearts, and with the loss of yet another little one this year, I can promise you these funds are desperately needed and used to help those who feel they are at a loss. No one ever does well losing a loved one, but when it's so sudden and for no apparent reason that you lose a child you have only barely met and held, you feel so isolated and looking for answers that are just not there. SIDS and Kids don't necessarily have the answers either, but with your help they certainly can give grieving parents like us support and the opportunity to speak to others who know exactly how we feel. And some days that in itself is enough to keep us going. Thank you for what you do."

One of my event volunteers advised me of a conversation he had with a father and two small children. They stated that our display was the first time that he and his children had felt happy and a bit more cheerful since their wife/mother passed away a few weeks earlier of a brain tumour. Our event's primary focus is to bring joy and support to the community.
